Re: Super Bowl LX Bay Area Remote Bus Yard

Dear Ms. Stoehr,

It is my pleasure to commend Ms. Sharon Lee and Mr. Craig Graber for their outstanding partnership with the GAMEDAY team at Metropolis in providing our remote bus yard space at the San Mateo County Event Center (SMCEC) in support of Super Bowl LX Bay Area.

As the site of our SBLX Remote Bus Yard, the SMCEC was the heartbeat of our regional transportation strategy. Managing a fleet of this magnitude requires a venue that offers both physical scale and operational sophistication; the SMCEC delivered on both counts. Throughout our engagement, Ms. Lee proved to be more than just a vendor; she was a strategic partner who fundamentally understood the intricacies of special event transportation listed below:

- Ideal Operational Space: The layout and infrastructure of the SMCEC provided an ideal environment for our staging, dispatch, and driver transition needs. It allowed for a fluid movement of vehicles that was critical to meeting our ever-changing Super Bowl timelines and schedules.
- Exceptional Team Support: The SMCEC staff were more than just sales, services or security - they were active collaborators. Their "boots-on-the-ground" support ensured that any logistical hurdles were cleared before they could impact our schedule and operations.
- Unrivaled Flexibility: Large-scale events are inherently unpredictable. The SMCEC team's willingness to adapt to shifting operational hours and changing footprint requirements was a primary driver of our success.

The success of Super Bowl LX's ground transportation was due in no small part to the hospitality and customer service of the SMCEC team. The SMCEC was instrumental in ensuring that the out-of-town Super Bowl LX fleet moved safely and efficiently. In my 23+ years of event experience, I have rarely encountered a venue team so committed to a client's operational success. Although my team is location-dependent when it comes to future special events, I recommend without reservation the SMCEC to not only my fellow Metropolitans, but also to my broader sports and entertainment industry network requiring special event housing or specialized group accommodations in the Bay Area.
